

BOOKSHELF

- Dissent on Aadhaar: Big Data Meets Big Brother
Edited by Reetika Khera
Orient BlackSwan
₹475

Aadhaar, India's unique identity system, was introduced in 2009 with the purpose of creating a more inclusive welfare system. Hundreds of people were enrolled into the biometric database, making it compulsory for social benefits. This book argues that the project opens doors to immense opportunities for government surveillance and commercial data-mining.